Great weight should be given to views of Germans in reunification questions but Western Powers must take initiative in making proposals in security disarmament and European Kerning fields. However, French were more rigid on reexamining aspects of reunification involving free elections and direct contacts between East and West Germans whereas Germans were willing to examine possibilities of not making free elections first step in reunification process.

- 4. Western proposals must include some counterproposal on Berlin to cover period until reunification. Germans emphasized in their view essential point was EZEK continued presence of allied troops in Western Berlin endowed with NATO EMERKEY character.
- 5. West must provide proposals giving opportunity/prolonged discussion if Soviets wish to spin out negotiations by appointing deputies to continue after Foreign Ministers meeting. Discussion of principles of peace treaty most likely subject. Right of all-German Government to take part in peace treaty negotiations could be reserved. French and Germans doubted peace treaty drafts could be discussed article by article but agreed to idea putting forward principles of peace treaty to counter Soviet peace treaty. Germans would not commit themselves re present Government views on Gerstenmaier advocacy of peace treaty discussion.

- which should be capitalized on, Germans emphasized Mifficulties in this field. Strong doubts expressed re confederation idea and possibility that West could turn Soviet confederation proposal against USSR. Believed confederation in usual sense of word tantamount to recognition GDR and giving FedRep Soviet veto over Redress policy. Germans thought federal idea with wide powers in economic and social field given to Laender worth Examing examining.
- 7. xt Role of UN, if any, should be limited. Although injection of UN in some way recognized as being valuable in dealing with public opinion, particularly in uncommitted countries there was general fear that substantive discussion reunification issue in UN would be risky. French and Germans particularly skeptical.
- 3. Proposals made by Germans regarding turning against Soviet Union articles 14 and 16 of their peace treaty dealing with human rights and German readiness to give special assurances to their Eastern neighbors were valuable contributions.

French and Germans stressed interdependence, disarmament, European security and reunification. Both considered concept any security system limited to Europe fallacious; British expressed doubts as to feasibility withdrawal US troops from Germany and relocation other parts Europe on ground that remaining areas would be militarily indefensible.
